

FOSTERING FINANCIAL STABILITY TOGETHER

MYMONEY
WORKSHOP

MISSION

My Money Workshop is a 501 (c) 3 nonprofit organization that educates people to manage their finances wisely and to make a lifetime of informed decisions.

We teach people to understand the decisions they make about money so they can build positive financial futures.

Dear Friend,

For over ten years, My Money Workshop has provided high-caliber financial education to over 20,000 participants from a range of socio-economic backgrounds, race, and ethnicity. Our mission is to educate people to manage their finances wisely and to make a lifetime of informed decisions.

Our founder, Dick's vision for My Money Workshop was that every participant who attended a My Money Workshop class, left with the practical skills and knowledge to begin a successful journey toward self-sufficiency. After his passing in 2015, Dick's family became even more committed to furthering and expanding his legacy. Our work today extends to teens and adults from all walks who want to become financially stable.

In the years since, My Money Workshop has partnered with over 100 public and private high schools, colleges, universities, specialty schools, and community-based organizations to deliver customized financial literacy workshops in the NY tri-state area. Workshops are delivered by 50 volunteer instructors who are experts from diverse financial industries including financial advisors, asset managers, analysts, bankers and many more.

You have an opportunity to impact the youth and low-income adults we work with. Together we can ensure that as many people as possible — especially those who may not have easy access to financial education — receive the tools and skills they need to achieve financial stability.

Thank you for your consideration. In the enclosed pages, we hope you will see the impact that your support can have on the communities we serve.

Sincerely,

HISTORY

My Money Workshop was founded in 2009 by Dick Yaffa, a Bedford, NY philanthropist. After several conversations with numerous college and high school students, he saw that students and young adults entering the workforce lacked knowledge about the fundamentals of money management.

Dick made it his mission to educate students and help them understand the economic consequences of their actions and the external factors affecting their future prospects.

In April of 2009, a workshop curriculum was developed and a test seminar was given to Sarah Lawrence College seniors located in Bronxville, New York. The students' attentiveness and questions underscored their need and desire for financial literacy and money management knowledge.

“Through what we do
I would like to make a lasting impact on these people's everyday lives.”

— Dick Yaffa

As a result of the success of these initial workshops, other colleges and organizations throughout Westchester County were contacted, and financial literacy workshops were conducted for approximately 300 students in 2009.

After his passing in 2015, Dick's family was even more committed to furthering and expanding his legacy. The goal of financial literacy for all became My Money Workshop's mission.

Since inception, My Money Workshop has partnered with over 100 public and private high schools, colleges, universities, specialty schools, and community-based organizations to deliver over 1,000 customized financial literacy workshops in the NY tri-state area.

THE NEED

- A survey in 2015 by the FINRA Investor Education Foundation found that only 63% of adults in the U.S. were able to answer 3 or fewer questions about every day finance correctly.
- A 2016 PriceWaterhouseCoopers survey of 5,000 millennials found that only 24% demonstrated basic financial knowledge.
- The Council for Economic Education reports that only one third of U.S. states require students to complete some type of financial education before graduating high school.
- The Federal Reserve's Report on the Economic Well-Being of U.S. Households in 2017 found that 40% of Americans couldn't pay for an unexpected $400 emergency. This report also states that over one-fifth of adults are not able to pay their current month's bills in full.
- 30% of Americans feel confident in their knowledge about managing finances.
- New York ranks 18 in financial knowledge and education.
- "With total American credit card debt surpassing $1 trillion for the first time in 2018 and only two in five adults having a budget, it's clear that better financial education is necessary." (thinkadvisor.com)

Together, these studies and statistics show that many individuals lack the basic knowledge necessary to manage their personal finances – and futures – responsibly. By targeting our programs to youth and underserved adult populations, we can ensure that as many people as possible, especially those who may not have easy access to financial education, have the tools and skills they need to achieve financial stability and avoid uninformed choices that may negatively affect their lives.

CHRIS' STORY

“I want to get a small apartment in the Bronx — build my credit, build my history, and save $6,000 to rent an apartment of my own.”

CHRIS, A RESIDENT AT CROSSROAD RESIDENCE IN NEW ROCHELLE, IS ON A JOURNEY BACK TO SELF-SUFFICIENCY.

“I was afraid to get my credit score, but I went to Credit Karma like they told us at the workshop and then I was able to get a secure credit card. I put $99 down and have started using it – not using more than 50% of my available balance and paying on time like we were taught. Now my credit is into the 500s, which is amazing.”

Chris, a resident at Crossroad Residence, is on a journey to self-improvement. “I started working at Five Guys Burgers, earning $300 a week and I have no rent expenses being at the house so I can save it – put it toward my day to day expenses, my gym membership and all that. My hope is that in a year I can get out of the house, get a credit card and an apartment.”

Chris has lived at Crossroads Residence for the last six and half months. “I had a six-figure salary, credit cards, and more money than I could need and I lost it all because I was dealing with alcoholism and went through a divorce. I was very skeptical but my friend William went through the house (Crossroads) and the same program, and he raised his credit score by 100 points too, so I went. Alcoholism and addiction destroys your life, so I’m looking at this as a stepping stone. William’s been a great help too. He drives me places because he has a license and I don’t and he already has an apartment.

By the end of the year, Chris hopes to get a better job to afford rent and get back to corporate, but at a more low-pressure and low-stress job. “I want to get a small apartment in the Bronx — build my credit, build my history and save $6,000 to rent an apartment of my own.”

When asked what inspires him to keep going, Chris said “my 20-year-old daughter – my family really, but most of all my daughter. She is in college now. I had some money from the divorce and with what I’m making now, I can help her with half her college and her books since it’s community college. It’s great to do that even if it means I have to go without.” Chris’ daughter is pictured above. (continued on page 13)

My Money Workshop is a financial literacy 501 (c) 3 organization that offers our participants actionable steps for a better tomorrow. Our mission is to educate people in the NY Tri-state area to manage their finances wisely and to make a lifetime of informed decisions. My Money Workshop is a 501 (c) 3 organization that educates people to manage their finances wisely and to make a lifetime of informed decisions. We teach people to understand the choices they make about money so they can build positive financial futures.

We partner with public/private high schools, colleges, universities, specialty schools, and community-based organizations to deliver highly interactive financial literacy workshops to students and community members ages 12+.

We have created financial management courses designed for all audiences from school-aged kids, college students, individuals in prison re-entry programs, and retirement communities, among others. Our goal is to continually work with the school or community agency to identify the content that will resonate best with participants.

79% of our Client Partners in serve low-income individuals.

You can learn more about our partners at <https://mymoneyworkshop.org/partners>

In 2019, My Money Workshop hosted 280 workshops and served 3,273 participants. 79% of these participants were low-income.

My Money Workshop's programs are delivered as standalone classes or as part of our Foundation for Financial Success Series Program. All programs are customized to fit the need of each student group.

Volunteer instructors who are experts from all financial industries teach our workshops. Since our inception, we have supported over 20,000 participants at over 1,000 workshops.

During the COVID-19 Pandemic, My Money Workshop pivoted our programs to an online solution that offers pre-recorded and live webinars to participants as well as other digital resources.

100% found the class helpful or very helpful in helping them understand how to manage their money.

OUR PARTNERS

Since inception, we have delivered workshops at over 80 organizations. Our partners help us reach our mission every day. In 2019, we will host close to 270 workshops across the tri-state.

Chris, whose story you read on page 6, is one of many participants at Crossroads Residence that have made considerable changes to their finances. Most now share tips and tricks to the incoming residents. Chris has even taken his house mates to open their own bank accounts.

We are proud to partner with Crossroads Residence. We first connected with Barbara Queenan, Crossroads' Program Director, in 2016 when she worked at a different client organization, Reagan Residence. After Barbara moved to Crossroads in 2018 she knew our services were needed there just as much.

Barbara has thirty years' experience working in accounting and purchasing, but September 11th ignited a career change that led her to Crossroads as a client care worker in October 2006. Barbara became Crossroads' Program Director in 2018. She is a credentialed Alcoholism and Substance Abuse Counselor and is two semesters away from a BS in psychology.

Crossroads' mission is to provide safe and supportive transitional housing for men recovering from alcohol and substance abuse. "We intend for our residents to leave better than they arrived. Our residents are referred from various SUD treatment modalities. Crossroads requires that residents are 30-days sober and clean, have county residency, Westchester Department of Social Service approval, or the ability to self-pay."

Crossroads is just one of many partners where we deliver workshops. Our instructors look forward to our monthly workshops there and we're excited that we have been able to see such great success from the residents.

"My Money Workshop assists our residents with understanding budgeting, saving, establishing credit, and navigating banking finance. For our residents, financial literacy is essential for gaining and maintaining independence."

THANK YOU!

“Its not always easy finding presenters that can connect. The youth that I have chosen to work with are often described by society as "AT RISK" yet I beg to differ. Often this label creates a stigma with caged in potential but I have seen that when offered information that perhaps they have never had, they begin to see all the possibilities. Many of them have inherited circumstances that are not of their making alone and need to know that second chances do exist. And as the instructor so wonderfully explained, they are the center of their own universe and the choices they make can seriously impact any change that they desire. The service you provide is so very necessary especially for youth who may have had no positive examples or baseline of healthy habits or life strategies.”
